

The E. coli Cas1/2 endonuclease complex modifies self-targeting CRISPR/Cascade spacers reducing silencing guide stability.

Zhixia Ye<sup>1,2</sup>, Eirik A. Moreb<sup>1</sup>, Shuai Li<sup>1,2</sup>, Juliana Lebeau<sup>1</sup>, Romel Menacho-Melgar<sup>1</sup>, Matthew Munson<sup>2</sup> and Michael D. Lynch<sup>1,4</sup>

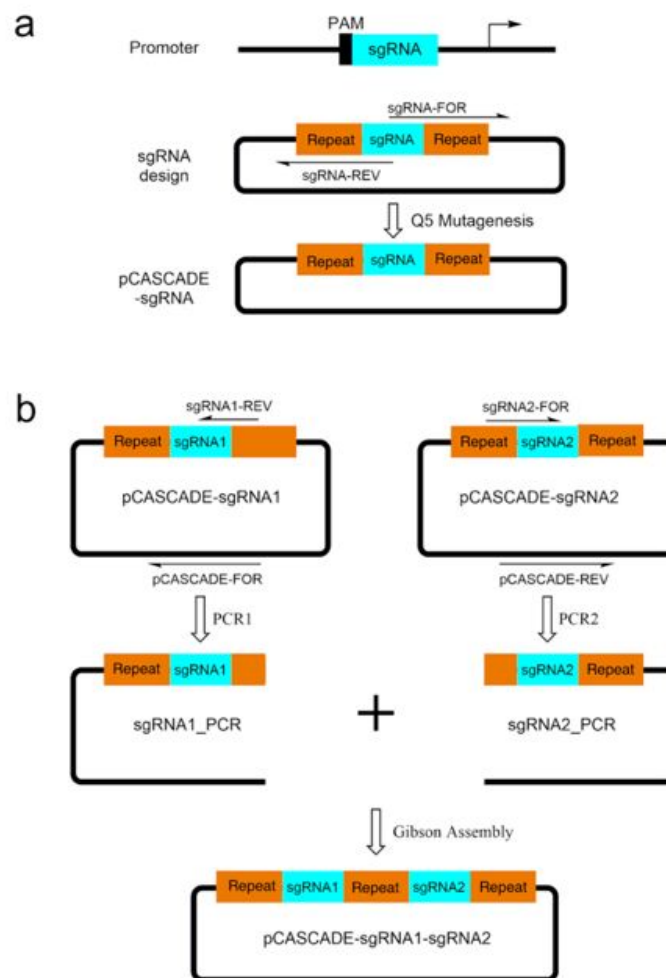

<sup>1</sup> Department of Biomedical Engineering, Duke University

<sup>2</sup> DMC Biotechnologies, Inc. Durham, NC

<sup>3</sup> Department of Chemistry, Duke University

<sup>4</sup> To whom all correspondence should be addressed.

Supplemental Materials

Figure S1: pCASCADE construction scheme. (a) single sgRNA cloning; (b) double sgRNA. gRNA arrays of more than two sgRNA are constructed similar to the double sgRNA.

Tables S1-S5: Refer to a Separate Spreadsheet for Supplemental Tables.

