

Dimeric artesunate-phosphatidylcholine based liposomes for irinotecan delivery as a combination therapy approach

Wei He, Yawei Du, Tao Wang, Ji Wang, Lei Cheng and Xinsong Li*

School of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering, Southeast University, Nanjing, 211189, P. R. China

* Email of corresponding author: lixs@seu.edu.cn (X Li)

Table of Contents

Figure S1. HPLC elution curve of dARTPC incubated in PBS at pH 5.0 indicating ART and DHA peaks.

Figure S2. TEM image of the liposomes after incubation in PBS solution at pH 5.0 for 48 h.

Figure S3. Quantitative analyses of MCF-7 cells after incubation of 24 h.

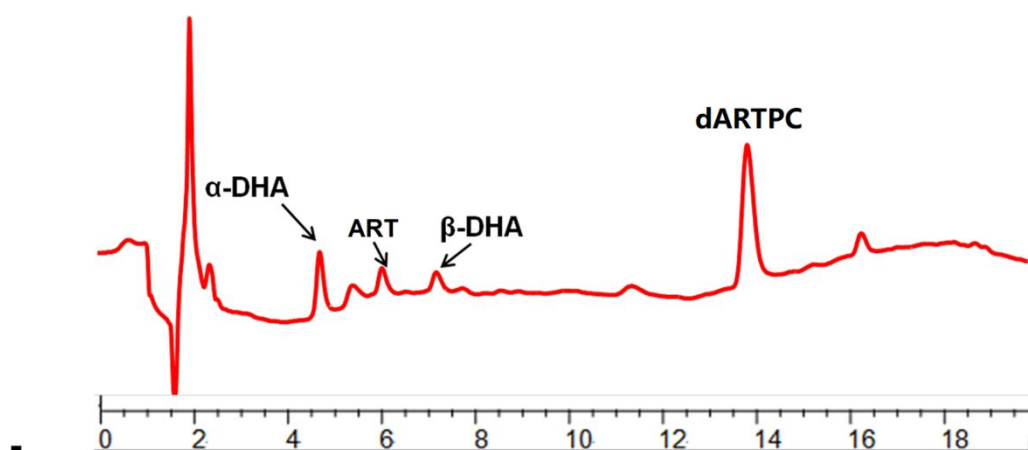

Figure S1. HPLC elution curve of dARTPC incubated in PBS at pH 5.0 indicating ART and DHA peaks.

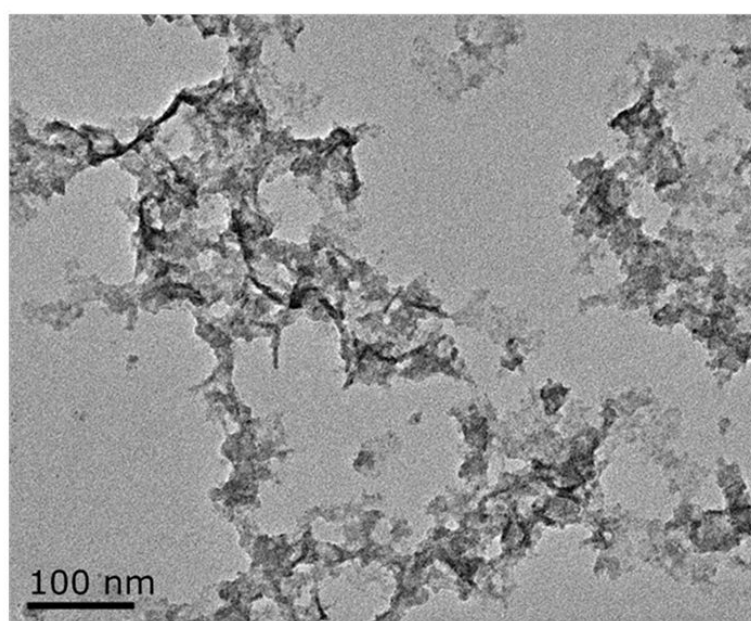

Figure S2. TEM image of the liposomes after incubation in PBS solution at pH 5.0 for 48 h.

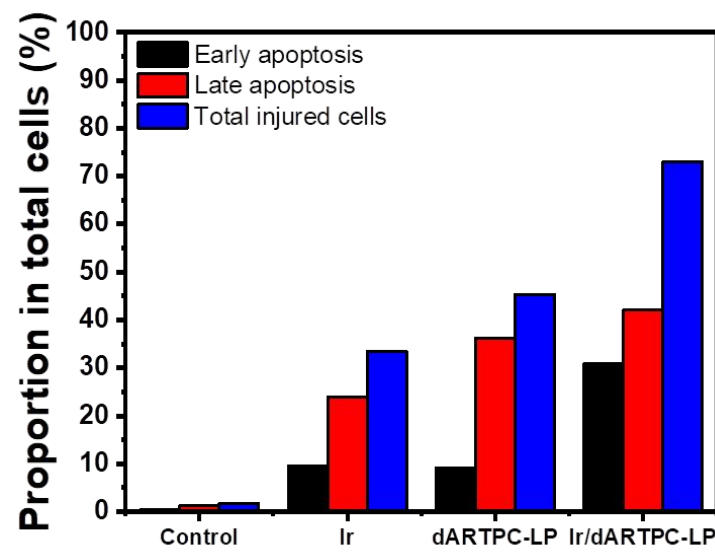

Figure S3. Quantitative analyses of MCF-7 cells after incubation of 24 h